Eyewitnesses Tell Of Champagne Battle

Paris, Nov. 11.—Eyewitnesses of the battle of Champagne declare that the French assault beginning at 2:15 the morning of September 25 developed such impetus in the first twenty minutes that the Germans, though expecting it, were simply overrun. Men on guard in the trenches had scarcely time to fire. The artillery in the rear, whose role was to maintain a barrier of fire before their lines in case of attack, opened only after the three waves of assailants had already passed out of range. The troops advancing from Perthes reached the German camp behind the lines and in a single rush killed the guards and made many officers prisoners in their beds. North of Beaucourt the first bound carried the line to the positions of the German artillery; in a twinkling the gunners were bayoneted and the line went on.

In the battle of Champagne the losses in prisoners exceeded the total in any one of the above decisive battles and their total losses nearly equal the aggregate in all four. The losses of the units engaged the 25th and 26th of September, according to French information, ran from 40 per cent to 80 per cent of the total strength of 750 per cent. On this basis the French official estimate of the total German losses at 140,000 is declared to be conservative since there were 99 battalions on that front before the battle began and 93 battalions were sent to reinforce them, making a total of 223,000 men, among whom the losses averaged 70 per cent. Nearly all the first line troops were either killed or captured.

DENVER NEWS

The Denver school completed a month's work on last Friday, November 5th. As a whole, the work for the first month was very satisfactory. In order to encourage the pupils to become even more studious than they are inspired to be by their natural ambition, the officers of the school have devised an honor roll system. All of those who made an average grade of 90 or above (not including the grade on attendance) are eligible to have their names entered upon this meritorious list. The following pupils merited the distinction of having their names placed on the honor roll for last month: In the primary division—Nannie Lee Hobson, Janie Esther Hobson, Alma Yeargin, Lois Moore, Joseph Heller, William Clark, William Harbin, Helen Eskew, Robert Garrison, Nellie Humby, Mary Bowden, Ruth Thomas, Gilbert Patterson, Boyce Chapman.

In the intermediate grades—Ruth Hammond, Cornelia Milam, Nellie Eskew, Charles Garrison, Norman Garrison, James Darby, Walter Heller, Henry Milam, Grace George, Macie George.

In the advanced grades—Margaret Edd, Stacy King, Grady Phillips, Carlton Garrison, Ruth Darby, Annie Darby, Kitt Palmer, Elizabeth Bowden.

A reception was given at the Denver school building last Friday, November 5th, by the members of the School Improvement association. A large crowd was present, and the time was spent in a most enjoyable and profitable manner.

The officers and pupils of the Denver school were glad to have Mr. Patterson Hobson visit them on last Tuesday. Immediately after chapel exercises, Mr. Hobson gave a few appropriate words of encouragement to the pupils. Mr. Hobson, who is a Western college man, proudly claims the Denver graded school as his "Alma Mater."

The following members of last year's graduating class are now attending college: Mr. Clyde Garrison, at Clemson; Mr. Theo. Eskew, at Clemson.

The officers of the Denver school wish to remind the patrons that their visits to the school will always be appreciated.

ITCHING ECZEMA IS DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Use like cold cream to subdue irritation and clear the skin.

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs and body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur, as noted dermatologists. He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears. Those troubled should obtain from any druggist a ounce of bold-sulphur, which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome.

DEPENDENT PERSONS STARVING IN POLAND

Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 11.—Pleading that three million persons dependent on the industries of Poland are starving, the Workman's Union of Poland has sent to the governor general, Herr von Beseler, a memorial urging the reopening of the factories, the adoption of a protective tariff, and the return of machines, mechanical fittings and especially belts and gears, which were taken out of the factories and work shops during the early days of German occupation.

The memorial states that "the working population of Poland includes 350,000 workmen in factories, 60,000 in the building trade, and 590,000 in smaller industries." Including the families of these workmen, this industrial population reaches a total of three million persons, with a normal income of about $150,000,000 a year.

A certain proportion of this population, it is stated, has been sent to Germany, and another section are receiving aid from their former employers—where the latter are still able to help them. "But there is still a great mass of people who are actually starving," says the memorial, "and for the sake of these persons it is advisable to put at least some of the factories into operation, especially the sugar, vinegar, and yeast factories, mills, breweries, saw-mills, brick yards, and foundries."

The memorial deals briefly with the question of articles commandeered by the German military authorities, stating that the complete confiscation of all raw material would paralyze industry, and that enough machinery should be left in the factories to enable them to continue in partial operation.

The customs tariff promulgated on June 22 by the German commander is criticized as unsuitable, because it fails to protect Polish industry, and even in normal times would bring about its ruin. Therefore the establishment of the old tariff is asked. There is a further demand for a lowering of railway rates, which are alleged to be now on a burdensome and impossible scale.

LEVEL LAND NEWS

I have been asked to announce that there will be a Sunday school rally on the 1st Saturday and Sunday and there will also be prayer meeting at Union provided the services at Little River does not hold on too long in the afternoon. Wonder who notified the cotton buyers that all of our notes were due on or about November 1st. That's why our market is down at present, says some of our business men. When did you ever see such pretty weather in the month of November? Nearly all of our farmers are about done picking cotton and we expect a short report next month. There were several visitors at Union prayer meeting Sunday. Our school teacher has had a nice time so far, only one pupil attended the first week, and there are now enrolled the sum of three. Wake up! Boys! It's time for our parties, eh? Mr. Editor: I am certain glad to know you have such a lot of town, and especially good people. I notice you have a family in your town that was in need. The whole entire family being down with fever. On reading your next issue I find your people has more than supplied the wants of these poor people. I decided to take up a collection around here, but your citizens have acted so promptly, I hardly think it worth while. But if you need any aid don't delay in notifying me, as we have one among the best set of people to help those who need help. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Carville, of near Abbeville, spent Sunday in our settlement. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alowine, of Abbeville, spent Sunday with relatives here. J. K. Temple says he is going to stop his gin, and buy a monkey. Says there is more profit.

The Embazzling Tourists. It is notorious that American citizens regard Uncle Sam as an easy mark. And yet it seems as if patriotism, decency and plain gratitude ought to impel those whom Uncle Sam helped home when the war started to pay back the money advanced them. The list of delinquents recently made public by the federal treasury department has given the country a shock. If the citizens thus pilfered are not ashamed of themselves, the nation is ashamed of them. It was the nation that provided the money. The stranded tourists were in Europe for their own business or pleasure; it was an act of gratuitous benevolence for the nation to lend them funds to bring them safely home. The advances were accepted as loans. But it seems that a great many citizens, even while promising to repay them, really regard them as gifts. The most shameful thing about it is that so many hundreds of the tourists have fictitious names or addresses. Their action was plain embezzlement. The committee that disbursed the $2,750,000 provided by congress may have been careless, but it was hard to be careful in such an emergency. The committee trusted to American honor—with the result that Uncle Sam is out several hundred thousand dollars, and will be far less willing next time to help citizens in distress. There is no undue pressure on unpleasant publicity for those who recognize the obligation and want to pay when they can; but the others richly deserve having their names printed and having claims brought against them.—Augusta Chronicle.

Brand Whitlock.

Our American ambassadors abroad are constantly giving a shock to the smug theory of professional diplomats in the old world, that no man can hope to represent a nation successfully unless thoroughly trained for the job. No doubt training and experience have their place and advantage, but the cool assumption that no man can be a good diplomat without years of training has been too often upset by our own representatives abroad. Here is Brand Whitlock, originally just a good business man of Ohio, reform mayor of Cleveland, and a innocent of European diplomatic etiquette as any child. Yet, when it came to the real thing in representing this country and a half dozen other countries involved in the war, when it came to hard and efficient work, the use of sound judgment and the possession of manners good enough to show all men a courteous spirit, Mr. Whitlock made good in every way. Even the German conquerors of Belgium, deeply suspicious of him at first, have reached the point now that they hasten to assure him that it is no wish of the imperial government that he should leave for America now. As for the Belgian people, they regard Brand Whitlock almost as a god-father. He is coming back home now for two months, not because anybody at all wanted to get rid of him, over there, but simply because he is worn out and no doubt hungry to see what a peaceful country and his own native land looks like just for a little. Here's luck to him.—Spartanburg Herald.

Starting Again.

Two Irishmen, long enemies, met one day. Said one: "What's the sense of two intelligent men going along year after year, like a couple of wild cats fighting at each other? Here we live in the same town, and 'tis a burnin' shame that we do to be actin' like a couple of boobies. Come along wid yer shake hands, and we'll make up and be friends." Which they did, and went to an adjacent public house to cement the friendship with a glass of grog. Both stood at the bar in silence. One looked at the other and said: "What are you thinkin' about?" "Oh, thinkin' the same thing that you are." "So ye're startin' again, are ye?" Philadelphia Public Ledger.
